MENT OF THE DUNRO POST-OFFICE.—We received, day, the following telegram:—"The Post-Office has not been robbed of money or stamps. The box and stamps were on the table, the thieves only took letters from a bag, for what motive it is impossible to say."

by the Rev. Mr. Chapman and others, and no one was present from the Sabbath School scholars, and the proceedings appeared to be greatly expediting the work as large as the building could contain. The very handsome and interesting commentary on the Bible was read by Mr. Bradley, the superintendent of the Sabbath School, on the occasion of his removing of the same to a new place. A handsome board Bible was also presented to the school by one of the lady teachers.

WEDNESDAY SABBATH-SCHOOL TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of Presbytery Sabbath-school teachers was held in the Village Church, to meet for the purpose of organizing a Presbytery Sabbath-school association. The meeting was held in the afternoon, and was attended by a large number of the Sabbath-school teachers, who were chosen to present the Rev. Mr. Chapman, the superintendent of the various Sabbath-schools, and the Rev. Mr. Patterson, who was chosen to present a letter of apology for absence from the meeting, and a letter of appreciation for the services of the Rev. Mr. Patterson, after which the meeting adjourned.

CITY CITY MISSION.—The annual tea-meeting of the Synagogue of the City of New York, held at the Temperance Hall, Pitt-street, yesterday There was a very numerous attendance. After an address was had by the Rev. Mr. Professor of the Hall was well filled on the occasion.
It was thought he had done much to merit the honor of being elected to the position of President, and confidence in the gentleman, forming the basis of his had never much troubled himself about the matter, and City Mission ought to be countenanced by me, therefore when I was asked to give a side he felt that he could not well refuse. The only reason why he did not make more of it was that he thought the work was much better performed as it was, it was not the least money required, and that accounted for his not being called upon Mr. B. Short, the hon. secretary, when that he had not a report to give, so it was not then stated in the report, but merely as a personal matter, they thought proper to let it go on the side of the institution. The ladies had undertaken to raise £100 for the first year, and the sum of £150 had been raised towards the second year. The ladies of the Bethune-street Church were the initiators of the idea, and they were the support of the City Mission, and at their instigation last year the Rev. Mr. Voller had been enabled to raise even of £200 more, and this year he had raised, and they had only two gentlemen acting he felt bound to tell the subscribers and supporters of the cause that these truths were not only for the men, but by their efforts many children had been saved. He then stated that he had been invited to attend Christian Union, many fallen women he had seen, and that he had been invited to visit the low living Sunday School, who had been brought to the door of the truth through the agency of the City Mission. They had been right in the way.

During the past year they had been able to say their way better than they had done the previous year. He then read the six laws of the missionaries, illustrative of the great need of attending their labours, remarking that the agents were not only to be employed in the city, but in the suburbs, and to be able to relieve cases of absolute distress, and to be able to attend to the common necessities of life. The Rev. Mr. Sturges then read the following resolutions, which he was glad to have an opportunity of advocating at Sydney City Mission, and to say a few words in regard to the importance of the organization that ministers of the Gospel could not understand.

was listened to attentively by the members of the board. A vote of thanks was awarded to Mr. Johnson at its session.

ANATHEA BACKUS MINSTER—A company of students from the above high gave an entertainment at the School of Arts last evening, in aid of the maintenance of that institution. The programme comprised several songs, recitations, some of which were nicely arranged. The school authorities were very much pleased to receive this acknowledgment from the students, and the instrumental roles were also marvellously well performed. The students will yet make a very good record and provide the school with a creditable performance amongst the "gentlemen of color."

The financial success of the entertainment must have been about as the last was well filled.

THE GOVERNMENT GAZETTE

The following Circular Despatch from the Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies is published for general information:

(Circular.)
Downing street, 18th December, 1891.

Sir,—I have the honour to transmit, for your information and for insertion in the public papers, the accompanying copy of an order of her Majesty in Council, dated the instant, allowing the distilling apparatus of Messrs. C. Lin and Company, as well as those of Dr. Normanby Messrs. Winchester and Graveley, to be used on board

I have, &c.,
EDWARD CARDWELL
Governor the Right Honorable Sir John Young, Bart.
At the Court at Windsor, the 5th day of December, 1855
Present
The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.
Whereas by the Passengers Act, 1855, it is among other things enacted, that no passenger ship shall be cleared out, the Registration Office, or the port of call, shall satisfy himself that there is on board sufficient quantity of pure water, carried in tanks or casks, to sustain up to the intended voyage the issue of three or

And whereas it is also enacted, that it shall be lawful for His Majesty, by any Order in Council, to prescribe the rules and regulations as to her Majesty may seem fit, for permitting the use on board passenger ships of an apparatus for distilling water, and for defining in such case the quantity of fresh water to be carried in tanks or casks for the passengers, and such Order in Council from time to time to alter, amend, and revoke, as occasion may require:

And whereas her Majesty, by an order in Council, of the 9th day of January, 1863, prescribed certain rules

And whereas it is expedient to repeal the said order in Council, and to issue in lieu thereof the order hereinafter contained

Now, therefore, her Majesty doth, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, and in pursuance and in execution of her Authority vested in her by the said Passmen's Act 1835, hereby repeal the said order in Council of the 9th day of January, 1833, except in so far as the same may relate to the said 18th day of January, 1835, and doth hereby issue the following order in lieu thereof, to wit:

Any passenger ship, propelled by sails only, or by steam engine of less power than is sufficient, without the sails, to propel the ship at the rate of five statute miles per hour, may be cleared out and proceed on her voyage, lying on board, in tanks or casks, only half of the quantity of pure water required by the said Act to be carried for use of the passengers, provided the following conditions be observed, that is to say:—

2. That the owners, charterers, or master of such a vessel before clearance, lodge with such Emigration Officer a certificate from the engineer or surveyor of the Board of Trade, or from some other competent person to be named by the Emigration Officer, declaring that, within seven days last fully preceding the date of such certificate, the apparatus has been examined by him, and is then in good working condition, and stating the number of imperial gallons of pure water, which it is capable of producing in every twenty-four hours, and further declaring that the apparatus is capable of being used in the manner described in the regulations of the Board of Trade.

3. That in every case the Emigration Officer shall be satisfied that the number of gallons of pure water, or the apparatus is so certified to be capable of producing not less than the whole number of persons about to proceed on the intended voyage of such ship, that is to say, the whole number of cabin passengers, passengers, and crew.

And to prevent all doubts on the construction of the order in Council, it is hereby further ordered that the terms "Passenger Ship," "Emigration Officer," "Single Adult," and "Master" shall have the same significance as assigned to them respectively in the said Passengers' Act, 1855.

And the Right Honorable Edward Cardwell, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

THE LATE GOLD ROBBERY AT THE IRISH BARKS: DEATH OF GERMAN DAN.

[FROM A CORRESPONDENT]

At an adjourned Magisterial inquiry, held this 8th February, 1886, at Iron Barka, in the colony of New South Wales, touching the death of one John Garvey, who was dead on Tuesday, the 6th instant.—Present: Messrs. Milburne Marsh, P.M., and G. Korff. J.P.—H. Lawrence, being duly sworn, deposed: I am a licensed butcher residing at Iron Bark diggings, near Wellington. I recollect some time in the evening of Tuesday, the 5th February, being occupied killing an ox at the back of my place, my partner, W. Bragg, was with me at the time. I saw several men coming from Mr. Smith's camp amongst whom I saw one named James Osborne, another named John, the man who was charged with the murder of John Garvey, and another named John, who was charged with the murder of John Garvey.

theirs, called Jack, who was crying the gold in his hands,—just at the same time I saw two men on horseback, whom I thought to be blackfellow. Coming towards the men at full canter, and I heard these two men call either "put it down," or "drop it," immediately afterwards I heard a shot fired, and saw the dust fly from bullet striking the ground; the shot was fired from the horsemen towards the men with the gold; at the same time I heard shouts from the diggers calling "help, murder, bushangers!" I then turned to partner, William Bragg, who was standing by me, and "where's the gun?" he went inside his house, and "It is not loaded," and I said "load it," and by this time whilst my partner was inside his house loading the gun I heard several shots fired by the bushrangers towards the man Dan" (that is Daniel Heinzeberg), and the last with a rifle, about ten yards distance, at German Dan, who was the tallest of the bushrangers, who was then clamourously and standing near "Dan," as if to pick up the gold; after the shot was fired, I heard a cry as if from German Dan, who staggered back a few paces and got bebbish stump, on his legs and knees; all the other men were digging, some scattered in all directions, and all unarmed. I then saw the bushrangers that I saw must have been six, as if he had not been, he could not have been alone.

was about 100 yards off; by this time the other bushrangers had turned his horse's head up the hill eastward toward Muckeraw; he was about twenty paces away from me by this time my partner had come out of his hole with his gun which he had just loaded (one barrel). I said to him "look sharp"; we both went toward the gully which divided us from the bushrangers; by this time the bushrangers had got from thirty to forty yards where they had taken the gold; I said to my partner "now is the time"; "let them have it" or "give them"; I meaning thereby and my partner understanding that he was to fire at the bushrangers who were then a

120 yards off; I don't recollect telling my partner we to fire at; the tallest of the two who shot Dan was nearest to him by two or three paces; I saw my partner (Mr. Bragg) level his gun at the nearest bushranger and heard the report of the gun, and I watched the bushranger to see what effect it had taken; immediately afterwards saw the horse he was riding "gather himself up" if he was shot, or frightened with the report
I did not see the bushranger move in the least, did he appear to be shot; at this time the horse was going at full speed; the other bushranger was further ahead than ever; I saw them both for a few seconds, and then they were out of sight in fifty yards further than they were when I saw them

I saw him sitting on the ground bleeding from a wound in the right breast, with some of his mates nearby. I was the only one who stayed some little time—it might have been half an hour—before I was taken by this time the police had come, and I then showed them the direction the bushrangers had taken; myself and several others followed the police up the hill, when we heard the sound of a horse with a saddle and bridle on was galloping round the hill, and some of the party said, "Let's go and search; we might find the man." We went a little farther, then I heard a shout, saying "Here he is." I went up and saw the bushranger whom I had previously seen shoot German Dan.

gold-digger, and whom I believe my partner shot at (the bushranger) was riding up the hill; he was then dead, and I perceived he was not a blackfellow. I originally thought, but a white man, with face and hands disguised with a blue colour saw the rifle he shot German Dan with, we was just taken, I believe, from alongside of him, did not recognise him, as I did not know him, but I could not identify him as the old man at Bell's craven mine, and who has been sworn to as John Garver saw the dead bushranger (John Garver) removed in a shortly after to the lock-up, where I saw the dead body next morning.

held; I helped to carry home German Dan, the wounded digger, who is not expected to live, owing to the wounds.
